The Intelligencer.

WHEELING, MARCH 2, 1892.

THE approaching contest is rendered especially important by reason of the industrial and financial policies of the Government being at stake. The popular decision on these issues is of great moment and will be of far-reaching consequence.—James G. Blair.

The Blaine-Nepons Marriage.

After all that has been published on the subject with regard to the Blaine-Nepons marriage it is impossible to form any other conclusion than that Miss Nepons drew young Blaine into the union which has resulted so unhappily for both of them and brought mortification and pain upon the most eminent American of his time.

Miss Nepons was twenty-one years of age. Young Blaine was not yet eighteen years of age. Between the average young woman and the average boy of these respective ages the difference in intellectual maturity is more than three years. Between an unusually bright young woman, as Miss Nepons was, and an unusually weak boy, as young Blaine was, the difference was much greater. Miss Nepons had her own reason for desiring to make the match. That she was the suitor and arranged to rush into marriage the boy she had known for only a few days, is as plain as anything can be.

In the spring of 1888 the writer was in Augusta and heard the case stated thus by a Democrat: "I don't like a bone in old Jim Blaine's body—if it hadn't been for him Maine would have been a Democratic state by this time; but that young woman who was educated down your way is going to make trouble for the Blaine's and a good deal of it. It's a shame, too. Everybody here saw how it was. The Nepons came here and camped for a few weeks. They set a trap for the young bird and caught it."

Young Blaine was old enough to know better, but he didn't. The clergyman who married them should have done better. He says the boy told him he was within a few weeks of his majority. In law he was still an infant and the clergyman should have notified his father if the father had been the lowliest of men. He knew where to find Mr. Blaine and it would have been no more than decent to communicate with him. Mr. Blaine has the same right that any other father would have to complain of the treatment he received at the hands of Father Ducey.

It can not be said that the husband and wife, or the wife, received bad treatment after the marriage. To be given the use of the fine old homestead in Augusta, with servants, a horse and carriage and $2,500 a year was to set them up in a style and with a degree of comfort which the average family never reaches. The wife must have found her disappointment in something else.

For Free Wool Men to Explain.

Mr. Springer and his Democratic associates who are pushing their measure to destroy the wool industry of the United States should be willing to explain, if they can, what seems to the ordinary mind a glaring inconsistency in their argument.

They insist that the tariff on wool, laid for the express purpose of protecting the home industry, so far from protecting is an actual injury to the American wool-grower.

They will have it that if wool were on the free list, so that the wool of the world could meet on even terms in the American market the wool produced on American soil, the home product would bring a better price.

They declare that if the duty on wool were entirely removed the consumer would buy woolen fabrics at less price than now.

To sum up, under their scheme of free trade in wool the wool-grower is to get more for his wool and the consumer is to get his woolen fabrics cheaper because they will be made of higher priced wool.

If this be a truthful statement of facts it is capable of explanation so that the wool-grower and the consumer can get the idea through their heads.

Until a lucid and convincing explanation shall be made the wool-grower and the consumer will be justified in the suspicion that Mr. Springer and his Democratic associates are trying to trick them.

They Should Apologize.

The supreme court of the United States having unanimously decided that the Democrats in and out of Congress who denounced Speaker Reed for his quorum ruling were unanimously wrong, it is in order for every one of those gentlemen to bow down before Mr. Reed and humbly beg him to forgive them for making nineties of themselves.

They need not recite in detail the hard things they said about Mr. Reed and the Republican party. Nothing they said of Mr. Reed or his party hurt him or it in the opinion of citizens who expect members of Congress to return at least good behavior for the pay they receive.

It will be apology enough to say, We made donkeys of ourselves, O level-headed Mr. Reed, and a nice, we have heard from the supreme court of the United States we are profoundly and uncompromisingly ashamed of our little selves.

Mr. Reed is a man of large mind and great tenderness of heart. He will fall in with the spirit of the occasion, "chide mildly the erring" and bid them go and sin no more.

A Sockdologer.

Of the rule by which Speaker Reed counted a quorum when the Democrats present declared themselves absent, the supreme court says:

This rule was valid. It is within the competency of the legislature to enact any law not forbidden by the constitution or against natural justice to secure the presence of a quorum, and when that quorum is present it is there for the purpose of doing business.

"When that quorum is present it is there for the purpose of doing business." This was and is the Republican doctrine. The Democratic doctrine was and is that physical presence has nothing to do with a quorum, and that it is the constitutional right of every member to declare himself absent if he so desires, although he is sitting in his seat with his feet on the desk.

This is not the first time that the supreme court has knocked the nonsense out of Democratic doctrine.

Code for Republican Primaries.

Republicans will do well to preserve the code of rules for primary elections as published in to-day's INTELLIGENCER. The code follows the new election law, and is designed for the instruction of those who may be charged with the conduct of primary elections as well as of those who will vote at such elections. It is well to bear in mind that under the new law primaries to select nominees cannot be held in a happy-go-lucky fashion. They must be held according to law.

GARZA is not sustaining well the role of fierce fighting bandit. His anxiety to come in out of the wet indicates a yearning to save his precious neck at infinite cost to the "great cause" of which he made himself the champion. A genuine bloody-minded revolutionist would prefer death with honor. It may be that Garza's bankers have refused to honor further drafts—which would change the whole situation.

ANDREW D. WHITE is suggested as the successor of Whitelaw Reid in the mission to France. The President could not make a better selection. Mr. White is a man of unusual accomplishments, served with credit as minister to Germany, and is one of the "scholars in politics" who do not profess to be sublimely better than their party.

A REPUBLICAN nomination in McKinley's new district is so sure a thing—after it is secured—that many aspiring statesmen are willing to take it. In the event of a row it is suggested that McKinley may be asked to go back to Congress. Anything to please our friends the free traders.

If Senator Hill would put new life into his waning cause let him heed the voice of his friends and take unto himself a wife. That would surround him with the halo of a new interest and would draw to him the sympathy of every man who has made a matrimonial blunder.

When Emperor William rode out through the crowd before his castle gate, serenely filling the air with the fragrance of his cigarette, he displayed the cigarette smoker's courage of his convictions. A cigarette-smoking sovereign has much to learn.

PITTSBURGH'S assessed valuation is $245,000,000, and her property owners are not happy over it. If you haven't any use for it float it down this way. Wheeling will meet it with a brass band and do the handsome thing generally.

When the World says that the Albany bosses are in politics and legislation for the spoils, does it mean to include Hill, the boss of the bosses? The spoils referred to are in the way of toll for letting a bill go through.

The point is fluently made by a Democratic newspaper that the anthracite coal combination is another blow at a protective tariff. This is a body blow at protection. There is no tariff on anthracite coal.

Our Democratic friends are very anxious to know whom the Republicans are going to run for governor of West Virginia. They are so afraid a mistake will be made.

SENATOR SHERMAN is not a candidate for retirement, but the artist who invented the story may be regarded as a candidate for very distinguished honors in his line.

We continue to think that the West Virginia delegation cannot be had for Hill. The gentlemen who thought they would undertake the job now think they won't.

PRESIDENT HARRISON can afford to go duck-hunting. His party is getting the delegates for him. Do you see David B. Hill gunning for ducks?

You can't fool the sheep by telling them that free trade will grow more and more valuable wool on their backs.

A SLEEPING car porter in the woolly west has inherited $90,000—a mere bagatelle to a capitalist of his rank.

If silver goes much lower you will have to back up a cart when you go to get a dollar's worth.

An early and marked result of Hill's freeze-out convention is a heavy snow fall in his state.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

Wood is used in making an eatable and nutritious food by Dr. Krug, a German physician, whose method consists in transforming the cellulose into grape sugar and adding to this about forty per cent of meal of wheat, oats or rye. Phosphates and all bone elements may also be introduced. The wood-glucose bread is intended for cattle, to be used in place of oil-cake and similar preparations.

In the cathedral of Genoa is preserved, and has been for 600 years, a vase of immense value. It is cut from a single emerald. Its principal diameter is 12 1/2 inches and its height 5 1/2 inches. It is kept under several locks, the keys of which are in different hands, and it is rarely exhibited in public, and only by an order of the senate.

Work has been started on a pulp and paper mill at Winslow, on the Kennebec river, Maine, which is to have a capacity larger than that of any other mill in the world. It will turn out seventy-five to eighty tons of manila paper daily and employ 250 men.

Dr. S. Wier Mitchell, in his "Characteristics," now running in the Century, says of fools: "There is the foolish fool, the fool who is a good fellow, the ass fool and the fool finely endowed with obstinacy—the mule fool—and the middle-aged woman fool."

The irregularity of Maine's coast line is indicated by the fact that a Lubbeck man who bought a horse in Eastport was obliged to drive his animal more than forty miles to reach his home, although the two towns are only three miles apart in a straight line.

In Italy, France and Spain it is common to ring a hand bell short distance in advance of a funeral procession. The object of this custom is said to clear the way for the procession and to remind passengers and loiterers to take off their hats.

Within sixty-two years Mexico has had fifty-four presidents, one regency and one empire, and nearly every change of government has been effected by violence.

From recent investigations it has been found that the average speed of the transmission of earthquake shocks is very nearly 16,000 feet per second.

In a New Hampshire graveyard there is a large marble shaft on which the following words are inscribed: "Sacred to the memory of three twins."

In the Old Testament, although great numbers of women are mentioned, there is but one—Sarah, Abraham's wife—whose age is recorded.

PERSONAL POINTS.

The family Bible of George Washington's mother, now owned by Mrs. Lewis Washington, of Charlestown, W. Va., has been loaned for exhibition at Mount Vernon. It has a cover of homespun cloth put on by its original owner. The book is wonderfully preserved for its age, and all of its pages are still intact, except the first five or six, that were torn out and placed in the cornerstone of the Mary Washington monument, at Fredericksburg, Va.

Henry Church, sr., of Hundred, W. Va., died the other day at the age of ninety-nine years. A few months ago his sister died at the age of ninety-one. They were the children of two eccentric characters, known as "Old Hundred" and "Ninety-and-Nine" in that part of West Virginia. "Old Hundred" was a native of England and a British soldier during the Revolutionary war. He was not naturalized until he was 100 years of age, and lived to be 112 and his wife 100.

The will of the late Mrs. Sarah W. Glover, after devising legacies of from $50 to $1,000 to servants, etc., leaves the residue of an estate of $1,000,000 for the erection, equipment and care of a gymnasium for the students of both sexes in Thayer academy, Braintree, Mass., and also for the establishment and equipment of a chemical laboratory in connection with the same institution.

John B. Gough's library is to be sold at auction in Boston March 22. It contains nearly 3,000 volumes, and while it contains not many rare or ancient books, it is notable for the great beauty and expensiveness of its bindings—a character which no doubt owes something to the fact that Mr. Gough's trade was that of a bookbinder.

Queen Victoria has caused her private secretary, Sir Henry Ponsonby, to publish the fact that she will no longer give the customary gratuity to parents on the birth of triplets in their families, unless in cases of exceptional poverty.

Mme. Scalchi says that on days when she is to sing at a matinee she eats at 10 o'clock a breakfast of rare beef and bread, and takes no more food until 6 o'clock.

Julius Verne predicts the invention of a "telephoto," which will enable people at the distance of thousands of miles to see one another.

A mountain in Australia was named after Mr. Gladstone last year. Another has now been named Mount Salisbury.

POETS AT PLAY.

You have often seen a man—
 Whose syllables ran
 While his ideas parched in a drought;
 He does so, you'll find,
 From the fact that his mind
 Can never keep up with his mouth.

Certain it is, in ancient times,
 It seems to me to be a
 To-day, alas! most rhymes are free
 From anything like poetry.

Whence'er my true love's mouth I scan
 Good opening for a clever man—
 And I act on that idea.

MORNING SMILES.

"In writing up the burglary," said the excited caller, "you can say the thieves in their hurry overlooked $750 worth of jewelry and solid silver plate in one of the closets." "Might not that bring the burglars to your house a second time?" suggested the city editor. "I don't care if it does!" exclaimed the other. "I can't want the public to get the impression that a gang of robbers can go through my house and only find $25 worth of stuff worth stealing."—Chicago Tribune.

"Now, there is a story I don't believe," said Colonel Yerger, as he laid aside an exchange. "What story is that, colonel?" "That paper says that Cotopaxi can sometimes be heard 500 miles." "You don't believe it?" "Of course I don't believe it. I'll bet there isn't a singin' in the world that can be heard half that far." "But Cotopaxi is a volcano, colonel." "Is it? I thought it was one of those Italian fellows that go about with Patti."—Texas Sittings.

One of the city's prominent life insurance agents has a bright boy. One day in Sunday school the little fellow's teacher was telling her class about Daniel in the lion's den. Tommy listened attentively and finally burst forth with: "Did Daniel's children get his life insurance when he was all eaten up?" This "broke up" the class.—Boston Herald.

A sympathetic Philadelphia youth who had saved up 25 cents was so worked upon by a Russian famine sermon Sunday that he put his entire savings into the collection. After church he was praised for his liberality. "Yes," he answered, "there's no use in a feller tryin' to save. I'll give the thing up."—Philadelphia Record.

"Do you read the Bible, Waldo?" "Oh, yes, almost every day," replied the little Boston boy. "Scarcely a day passes that in my reading I do not find some reference to it which requires verification."—Indianapolis Journal.

It is quite probable that you may need the services of a physician some day; but you can postpone the time indefinitely by keeping your blood pure and your system invigorated through the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Prevention is better than cure. DAW

La Grippe Successfully Treated.
 "I have just recovered from a second attack of the grip this year," says Mr. James O. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexico, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days, against ten days for the first attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy, as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down.'"

SAVED MY LIFE

Would Have Scratched Myself to Death but for Cuticura. Best Doctors Two Years. Bills $125.

Expended $2.50 for Cuticura Remedies. I am To-day a Well Man, With a Smooth Skin.

I was afflicted two years with a disease the doctors called ring-worm, herpes, or salt rheum. I was treated by three different doctors, the best I could find, but they did me no good. My doctors' bills were $125. One told me I would have to go to some healing springs to get well. I saw your advertisement, and wrote to you over a year ago. A young friend of mine was going to New Orleans, La., at the time, and I sent by him to bring me back some of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. He brought two boxes CUTICURA, two cakes CUTICURA SOAP, and one bottle CUTICURA RESOLVENT. I must thank God for your CUTICURA REMEDIES coming to my relief. I am now to-day a well man; my neck, shoulders, and arms are as smooth as they ever were. I have had good health ever since I commenced to use the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I am spreading the fame of it everywhere I go, for it is a God-send to suffering humanity. It was the CUTICURA REMEDIES which saved my life. I would have scratched myself to death. I have quit using the medicine now for nine months, and no trace of the disease has shown up since.
